1.1 Programme description

Objectives

Studying the French language and its literature opens the door for students to understand the multicultural Francophone world. They can go on to master French; become familiar with the Francophone cultures of Europe, North America, and Africa; and understand their cultural contexts and ties. Beside acquiring knowledge of the practical language and specialized linguistic disciplines, such as phonetics, phonology, morphology, and syntax, students will learn about the history, culture, basic facts, lifestyles, institutions, and literatures not only of France and Canada but also of the Maghreb, Sub-Saharan Africa, and the Caribbean.

Studying French will, on one hand, improve students' linguistic knowledge of the skills required in fields based on communication and communication technologies, such as translation or public service, while on the other it will build analytical capabilities, independence, and creativity.

Through a systematic training in connection with practical language, specialized linguistics, and literature, students will master the main principles of a cultivated written and spoken style in both French and Czech.

Learning Outcomes

After successfully completing his/her studies the graduate is able to:

- communicate in spoken and written French on C1 level according to CEFR
- perform linguistic analyses of texts, at all linguistic levels and based on knowledge in selected branches of linguistics
- analyze literary texts
- critically address literary history in basic interdisciplinary and cultural contexts
- translate from French into Czech and vice versa

Occupational Profiles of Graduates

Graduates of this programme have the knowledge and skills to be able to perform independent work in intercultural communication, in internal and external company communication, in cultural institutions, as editors in translation agencies and translation sections of national and international institutions and companies, and as editors in the media and publishing houses. In all of these fields, they will be able to apply their linguistic competence and knowledge of a different cultural milieu.

Goals of Theses

A standard length of a Bachelor's thesis ranges from 72,000 to 90,000 characters, including footnotes, cover sheet, content, index, and bibliography. Students can work with already published texts, although they must approach them in an analytic and critical way in order to express their own comments, opinions, and conclusions. These are to be written in French so as to demonstrate the student's capability to work with sources and to communicate in an appropriate and cultivated way, without errors.

Access to Further Studies

Graduates of the Bachelor's programme may subsequently continue in any related Master's programme (after fulfilling the conditions for admission).

Motto

``Ianua linguarum reserata''

Course objectives

In this course, we seek out to provide to the students, already familiar with the work of argumentation and essay, some tools to master the scientific discourse patterns : in that way, we particularly focus on the various kinds of logical reasoning and their expression. We try to initiate the students into the difficulties and the methods of the scientific articles. Indeed, the final assessment of the course requires them to be able to write a paper themselves.

Teaching methods

Lecture: exposition and definitions of basic terms and their exemplification on different types of specific text (recordings), proceeding from diverse registers. Seminar: application of theoretical knowledge on authentic texts (recordings). During their presentations students show their ability to interconnect on their own their theoretical knowledge and practical analysis of a specific text.

Assessment methods

The examination of the course is divided in two parts : the first part which takes form of an assessment concerning the theoretical elements (50% of the final grade); the second one which consists in writing a scientific article (50% of the final grade). As these exams take part of a continuous assessment, no final examination is scheduled.

Learning outcomes

-Consolidation and extension of the language skills and cultural knowledge The students should master the summary of several written documents.

Syllabus

A. Research at university I. Analysis methods II. Problems of thesis statements III. Morality and argumentation

- B. The scientific reasoning I. Typology of reasoning units II. How to develop arguments ? III. How to convince ?
- C. Implementation to the scientific articles I. Méthodology of articles writing II. The textual norms III. Practical examples

Course objectives

The aim of the course is to make students acquainted with the backgrounds of lexical variation and with an actual (and historical) dictionary production. Students should be able to define basic terms of a lexicology. When analyzing particular texts and exercises, he or she should be able to apply these terms and deduce from the observed phenomena the proper conclusions about the typology and dynamics of vocabulary and about the characteristics of French dictionaries.

Teaching methods

Application of theoretical knowledge on authentic texts. During their presentations students show their ability to interconnect on their own their lexicographical knowledge and practical analysis of specific occurrences.

Assessment methods

Credit – fulfilling weekly tasks, working on semestral project, short final test. Lecture and seminar attendance is mandatory (80%).

Learning outcomes

At the end of this course, students will be able to deduce and explain the rules of basic lexicologic phenomena and to use effectively French dictionary resources.

Syllabus

Synchronic approach – presentation of the categories of lexical semantic description (synonymy, antonymy, polysemy, homonymy, etc.)

Diachronic approach – classification of semantic shifts.

Regional, generational, social and stylistic variation.

Emphasizing the practical importance of lexicological research for the quality of lexicographical production.

Characteristics of French dictionaries.

Special attention will be devoted to the problem of the word as a unit of description of language, due to its limited phonetic and syntactic autonomy.

Learning outcomes

At the end of this course the students should be able to:

- understand problems concerning the imaginary of the urban space and its specific issues and apply this analysis to Canadian, especially French-Canadian literary works
- use informations on Canadian, especially French-Canadian literature.

Syllabus

The semester course, divided into 13 units of 2 hours, intends to propose a comparative reading of several authors in order to show the transformation of imagination linked to the cities of Montreal and Quebec. The historical perspective - that would not neglect some aetiological aspects - will be accompanied by a indentity confrontation (québécois and néoquébécois authors, English writing authors, etc.). This is not only to show similarities and differences, but also to evidence the transformation of aesthetic sensibility and worldview. Informations on literature are accompanied by photo documentation and films, notably as regards the historical documentation.

Table of Contents

I. Introduction. What the imagination of a city? Comparative analysis of three poems (songs).

II. Spatial, temporal and social components of the imaginary of the city. Photographic documentation, plan of cities of Montreal and Quebec.

III. Hidden history and founding narratives, symbolism and appropriation / disappropriation. Photographic documentation on Stadacone, Hochelaga, Native Americans. Constitution of the mythology of a city. Example of Montreal.

IV-V. Influence of literary tradition - representation of the city in the French-Canadian and Quebec literature.

VI. City - and social issues. Documentation: topography of Montreal and Quebec City, photos of places depicted in Gabrielle Roy's Bonheur d'occasion and Roger Lemelin's Au pied de la pente douce.

- VII. City and History. Leonard Cohen, Beautiful Losers.
 VIII-IX. City - Ghetto. Mordecai Richler, The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz. Yves Theriault, Aaron. Michel Tremblay, Sainte Carmen de la Main.
 X. City - society and culture. Michel Tremblay, Chroniques du Plateau Mont-Royal.
 XI. Mythical city. Jacques Ferron, Le Ciel de Quebec.
 XII. City of immigrants. Émile Ollivier, La Brûlerie.
 XIII. City as labyrinth. Jacques Poulin, Le coeur de la Baleine bleue. Lise Tremblay, L'Hiver de pluie.

4 credits, type of completion zk (examination), course guarantor doc. PhDr. Petr Dytrt, Ph.D.

Teacher(s)

doc. PhDr. Petr Dytrt, Ph.D. (lecturer)

Course objectives

Main objectives can be summarized as follows:

- The first aim of this course concerns an analysis of the three novels on the syllabus (to read quickly). With Tigre en papier, Olivier Rolin returns to the political engagement in the 1970's. With La Hache et le violon, Alain Fleischer proposes a philosophical novel which tackles the History of the last century, the Holocaust and the Zionist movement in particular.
- On the level of theory, we will return to certain categories of the analysis of the novel or to certain literary genres (the anti-utopia for example) through the works concerned.
- Finally, this course will allow to mention (quickly) the contemporary French literature. We will try to understand what the literature says, what does it teach about the world, about History and the desires that go across.

Teaching methods

Lecture and seminar. In the seminar, students are supposed to have read the books on the list of compulsory readings and prepared for discussion the extracts in study materials. Paper.

Assessment methods

The credits will be assigned under these conditions:

- 1 fiche de lecture

4 credits, type of completion zk (examination), course guarantor prof. PhDr. Petr Kyloušek, CSc.

Teacher(s)

prof. PhDr. Petr Kyloušek, CSc. (lecturer)

Course objectives

The course shows different approaches to the category of time in literary texts.

Teaching methods

Lecture: description of the literary field, explanation and definition of basic notions and their demonstration on concrete texts by concrete authors.

Seminar: Application of the acquired theoretical knowledge on authentic texts. In the form of a presentation the students show their capability to connect their theoretical knowledge while working with a concrete text.

Assessment methods

Oral exam.

Learning outcomes

Student will be able to:

- identify different functions of verbal forms in the narration
- to understand the relationship between verbal forms and narrative perspective
- analyze different positions of narrative perspective

Syllabus

The course combines theoretical approach with analysis of concrete texts. Main problems treated:

1. Time in physical, biological and psychological meaning. Time in different cultures.
2. Expressing time: linguistic means, verbal tenses, adverbs, nouns, deixis, "temps du discours" and "temps du récit" in French(Benveniste, Genette, Maingueneau).
3. Time and narrator: Diderot, Balzac, Gide, Céline.
4. Time and space in the mythe and in the novel: Lévi-Strauss, Tournier.
5. Representing time: Proust.
6. Subjectivity and the representation of time: Le Clézio.

FF:FJ2B032 Chapters of French Syntax

4 credits, type of completion zk (examination), course guarantor doc. Christophe Gérard L. Cusimano

Teacher(s)

doc. Christophe Gérard L. Cusimano (lecturer)

Course objectives

After trying to define the theme of the course, including morphosyntax, we try to uncover how this' intersection between morphology and syntax (G. E. Booij, C. Lehmann & J. Mugdan, 2000: 204) takes effect in morphology of French and can help improving traditional grammar as it is taught at school and college. In that way, the course deals with the problem of clauses, the notions of deixis and anaphora in morphosyntax. Reported speech is also studied.

Teaching methods

Examination – written test.

Assessment methods

The presence for lectures is highly desirable.

Learning outcomes

After completing the course, a student should be able to :

- identify and summarize the topics studied ;
- write an essay deepening one of the studied topics in the semester.

Syllabus

A. Clitics

B. Deictics and pronouns 1. History and definitions of deixis and deictic a. Deixis b. Deictics 2. Personal deictics a. Overview b. Some special cases (the case of "on") 3. Schematic summary a. Roles in French language b. The personal reference, time and space in French

FF:ROM1B133 Minority Languages in Europe

5 credits, type of completion zk (examination), course guarantor Mgr. Kateřina Garajová, Ph.D.

Teacher(s)

Alessandro Bitonti, Ph.D. (lecturer)

Course objectives

The course deals with the situation of the Lesser Used Languages, also called Regional Languages, in the European Union. The perspective of the project is both linguistic and sociological. At the end of the course students should be able to understand, interpret and create materials on the European, national and regional policies and sociolinguistic features of the languages involved.

Teaching methods

The teaching approach is CLIL based (Content and Language Integrated Learning) with peculiar attention to the elaboration of tasks for the development of cognitive, cultural, content and communicative competences in the field of minority languages. Classes will be held in English in a computer room with the support of digital technologies.

Assessment methods

The course will be taught one hour per week, for a total number of 12 hours to the students of the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures. The number of credits is 2 with a Z (započet) completion. The exam consists in the production of a project work. Attendance is compulsory.

Learning outcomes

At the end of the course students should be able to understand, interpret and create materials on the European, national and regional policies and sociolinguistic features of the languages involved.

Syllabus

The topics of the course will be: • language status, power and prestige, • attitudes on minority languages and groups, • language policies for minority languages, • sociolinguistic domains of regional languages, • endogenous and exogenous linguistic features, • economic and social power of languages.

FF:ROM1B140 Czech Queer History

5 credits, type of completion zk (examination), course guarantor PhDr. Jan Seidl, Ph.D.

Teacher(s)

PhDr. Jan Seidl, Ph.D. (lecturer)

Course objectives

During last 150 years, a period corresponding roughly to the existence of a „modern homosexual“ identity in Europe, several millions of non-heterosexual people have lived in what is now the Czech Republic. The aim of this course is to provide students with a systematic insight into the past of this country from the perspective of the situation of these people, be their respective identities labeled as „sodomites“, „urnings“, „tribadists“, „homosexuals“, „lesbians“, „gays“ or, most recently, „queers“. Since about 20 years ago, this focus has produced quite a large amount of research in the historiography of the Czech Lands, which will thus make it possible to address a rich range of topics during the course.

Teaching methods

One 2-hour lecture per week.

Assessment methods

For the assessment, students will be given a choice between: (1) oral exam or (2) written test covering the topics presented during the course and an essay on a topic linked to the course focus. This will account for 70 % of the final mark. Lecture attendance will account for 30 % of the final mark.

Learning outcomes

During the course, students gain insight, from various perspectives, into the developments of the situation of non-heterosexual people in the past of the Czech Lands, especially in the 19th and 20th centuries.

After completing the course, a student will be able to:

- explain main features of the development of situation of queer people in Bohemia, Moravia and Silesia, setting them in a broader (Central-)European context
- launch his or her own research into queer history, if he or she wishes so

Syllabus

Lectures will be structured around these axes: (1) Issues of identity (construction of the homosexual subject: role of medicine, media freedom, foreign influences, trans-generational tradition etc.; medical experiments aimed at the „treatment“ of homosexuality) (2) Persecution of homosexuality (judicial persecution based on the Criminal Code of 1852, extra-judicial persecution during the WWII, forms of discrimination during the Communist era) (3) Emancipatory movements (first attempts before 1918, the Czechoslovak League for Sexual Reform in the 1930s, limited possibilities for civic activism between 1948-1989, contemporary Czech LGBT movement after 1989) (4) Everyday life (with a focus on the 1930s and 1940s, based on archival sources produced by police institutions, and on the 1960s to 1980s, based on oral history research) (5) Homosexuality in arts (depiction of homosexual experience in Czech literature, theatre, cinema and the visual arts; popular culture as a source of „gay folklore“) For the needs of international students, the issues addressed will be, as necessary, set within a broader context of the Czech history. Comparison to other national contexts will be encouraged. The course stems from a long-term research interest and published works of the lecturer (inter alia, co-founder of the Society for Queer Memory in Prague).

FF:ROM2B101 Introduction to Vulgar Latin

5 credits, type of completion zk (examination), course guarantor doc. Paolo Divizia, Dottore di Ricerca

Teacher(s)

doc. Mgr. Ivo Buzek, Ph.D. (lecturer)

doc. Paolo Divizia, Dottore di Ricerca (lecturer)

Mgr. Jana Mikulová, Ph.D. (lecturer)

Course objectives

The aim of the course is to provide insight into the development of Latin during first centuries of our era, and to point to tendencies related to the development of Romance languages. Thus, the course gives students the opportunity to observe with their own eyes unique story of the change and vitality of the language. The starting point for the observation of the development towards Romance languages is Classical Latin, the essentials of which were acquired by students in their previous studies.

Teaching methods

Lectures, work with selected examples taken from Late Latin texts - identification of selected language changes.

Assessment methods

Examination

Written test from both Classical and Vulgar Latin. In the Classical Latin part, the knowledge of basic Latin morphology, selected syntactic phenomena and basic vocabulary will be required (list of required grammar is found in the study materials). In the Vulgar Latin part, questions will focus on topics studied during the course. Students also will be asked to explain simple examples of evolutionary tendencies found in Latin texts. The written test will be completed with a brief oral examination.

Learning outcomes

At the end of the course students should be able to: sketch development of Latin in the fields of phonetics, morphology, syntax and lexicon with emphasis on Vulgar and Late Latin; show relation between selected Late Latin evolutionary tendencies and the development of the Romance languages (mainly Italian, and Spanish); explain some basic principles related to the development of language and language changes.

Syllabus

Vulgar Latin: Introduction. Concepts of Vulgar and Late Latin and their definition. Romanization and the Romance languages. Changes in the vocalic and consonant systems. Nominal system: changes in declension, gradation of adjectives, changes in pronouns, origin of the article. Theory of grammaticalization. Verbal system: development of new forms (future, perfect), extinction of some classical forms, changes in verbal voice. Syntax: accusative with infinitive, quod clauses, absolute constructions, indirect questions, word order. Lexicon: semantic changes, Greek loan-words.
